Employee instructions:

- Call the service center to order the titer blood draw. The order will be available within 24 hours.

Occupational Health Service Center appointments

Service center business hours Monday–Friday, 8 a.m.–5 p.m.
Portland: 503-571-3366. All other areas: 1-888-414-3531.

- Check in at the main front registration area.
- Go to the lab to get a blood draw.

Registration representative:

- Ask patient the name of his or her employer.
- Check in under Corporate Account of this (employer name) or "Client not found" if unsure of employer.

Hepatitis — B Antibody Screen (Titer):

- A titer is a blood test that checks whether or not you are immune to a specific infectious disease(s).
- If you don't have a record of the previous vaccinations you've received, get your titers drawn first.
- Results are returned within 24 to 72 hours. If the titer shows that you're not immune, you need to get vaccinated or re-vaccinated.
- Once vaccinated, titers should not be drawn until 6 to 8 weeks after the vaccination. If drawn too soon afterward, the titers will indicate non-immunity.
- If your titers results are positive, it means that you have adequate immunity.
