

Seth Moody

Hogar de Ancianos de Jinotepe

Engineers Without Borders at Portland State (EWB-PSU) is a non-profit volunteer organization comprised of students and professionals. Efforts focus on improving quality of life in Nicaraguan communities. From repairing existing structures and developing viable irrigation systems to improving water supply and sanitation, projects encourage community engagement on all levels. Partnering with local government, community organizations, and individuals ensures success of our vision while providing economic opportunity, environmental sustainability, and quality of life for Nicaraguan communities.

University Paulo Friere and Portland State University students working together on final water tower foundation load calculations.