

Eric Mankowski
Department of Psychology
Allies in Change Counseling Center

A twelve-year partnership among Portland State University faculty and students, Allies in Change Counseling Center and other domestic violence intervention programs, and the Oregon State Crime Victims Services Division represents a creative synthesis of research, teaching and service. The partnership is characterized by diverse and reciprocal roles that transcend community-campus distinctions and by shared decision making that builds trust. Knowledge and action generated by the partnership have informed public policy and practice in domestic violence.