Project Title: Volunteer Monitoring - The Community Lab for Water Quality Education

The Student Watershed Research Project (SWRP) has been involved in monitoring and education within the Clackamas watershed for the past 17 years. In addition SWRP has partnered with the Clackamas River Basin Council (CRBC) over the past 7 years to involve Portland State University senior capstone students in community “snapshot” monitoring events within the Clackamas Basin. These events have directly engaged streamside landowners in the collection of water quality data, and helped them to interpret the results.
